The Four Corners of Bathurst & Bloor

An important built form and land use study for Bathurst Street from Dupont Street to Queen Street West is underway.

Bathurst and Bloor is unique.

It is the boundary between municipal wards. It is the dividing line for downtown Toronto. It is the intersection of at least four distinct communities. As such, it has never been looked at as a whole. This meeting will be the first time we sit down, together, as a community to examine this intersection and the neighbourhoods from London to Lennox and Markham to Albany/Lippincott.

Now that the future of Honest Ed's and Mirvish Village are up for debate, it is even more important to set out a vision for the four corners of Bathurst and Bloor. There are many sites at this corner that may become development sites in the next decade and we need to be prepared as a community to define how we want our neighbourhoods to grow. The outcomes of this charette on the Four Corners of Bathurst & Bloor will be included in the Bathurst Street study.
